OFFICE OF THE RESIDENT IN MYSORE BANGALORE. 26 JUN 1933 3744

Subject:- Application of the Indian Petroleum Act, 1899 to Liquid Fuel or Fuel Oil.

Sir,

I am directed to say that the Chief Inspector of Explosives has brought to the notice of the Government of India that some of the licensing authorities are of the opinion that liquid fuel or fuel oil in non-bulk is outside the jurisdiction of the Indian Petroleum Act and no license under the Act is necessary for its storage or transport. Under section 2(a)(iii) of the Act petroleum does not include any oil ordinarily used for lubricating purposes and having its flash point at or above 200°F. Liquid fuel or fuel oil is not used for lubricating purposes. Such oil, even if it has a flash point above 200° F., comes within the definition of petroleum as given in Section 2(a) of the Act and a license is necessary under the Act for its storage and transport in quantities exceeding 500 gallons whether in bulk or in non-bulk. I am, therefore, to request that

that if there is no objection necessary instructions may be issued to all licensing authorities.

I have the honour to be,

Your most obedient servant,

Assistant Secretary to the Government of India.

P.A. Mil.
